2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Kato teaches a package and mail delivery system, wherein the package includes a label having information. The information includes tracking number, delivery type and class (special delivery, second day air, ground guaranteed, COD, etc.) and special instructions for delivery.

The packages are collected at a hub, where the packages are read and the packages are sorted in accordance with the information stored in the attached labels with delivery classification, zip codes, cities, delivery class and so on. Kato also teaches a host computer.

Tuttle teaches an RFID system use in a baggage handling or airport baggage sorting facility. The RFID includes a memory including name of the owner, a destination, time and a flight number. Tuttle also teaches a database, which also includes these data, and an interrogating device for interrogating the RFID.

Benson teaches a system and method for tracking vehicles in a vehicle lot. The vehicle tracked utilizing a RF interrogation signal and the logic on the tag reads the vehicle information, such as a vehicle ID.

However, prior art of record does not teach all the limitations of the claimed invention together with identifying an item among the plurality of stored items by interrogating each of the stored items programmable identification device as well as comparing the first item identifier with the second item identifier until the item is identified, wherein the first item identifier and the second identifier are both stored in the memory of the programmable identification device.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
